PREFACE

The first edition of this report showed the status of driver license administration as of January 1, 1967. It was updated for January 1, 1968, and since has been published biennially. The tables remain basically the same, but the data have been expanded to meet the needs of the users.

The intent is to show the legal requirements concerning driver licensing, and this is possible only insofar as they are supplied by the driver licensing authorities of the various jurisdictions.

DRIVER LICENSE ADMINISTRATION REQUIREMENTS AND FEES

Status as of January 1, 1996

The tabular information in this report, provided by the State and Provincial driver licensing authorities, shows the administrative requirements and qualifications needed to obtain driver licenses in the 50 States, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, and the Provinces of Canada. Driver license content and driver improvement provisions are also included.

Thanks to the effort of the motor vehicle offices, the following data is as close to complete as possible. Information supplied in previous years was updated to the extent possible from other sources for the District of Columbia, Maryland, and Pennsylvania. The following symbols are used in the tables: N.A. - Not available in the jurisdiction; and Dash - not applicable to the jurisdiction or No.

The American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators (AAMVA) aided in the collection and presentation of these data.

This compilation should not be confused with another report, Comparative Data State and Provincial Licensing Systems--1990, prepared by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration. This report is being updated by AAMVA and should be ready by late summer. The two studies complement each other but do not contain duplication of data. An annual Federal Highway Administration publication, Driver Licenses, contains tables showing the number of licensed drivers in each State and includes stratifications by sex and age group.

DRIVER LICENSE ADMINISTRATIVE REVIEW

The first driver license laws were enacted in 1903 in the States of Massachusetts and Missouri. Rhode Island was the first State to require a driver examination in 1908. Since that time the testing and licensing of drivers have evolved into a comprehensive system based on the principle that driving is a privilege for those who can qualify and with the goal of ensuring the safety of the driver, passengers, pedestrians, and property. The major elements of each jurisdiction's system are positive identification of the applicant, written evidence of knowledge of State laws and practices, and a demonstration of driving proficiency.

In this report, Tables DL-101 through DL-107 present the status of the driver license function in each jurisdiction. The information is as it was reported in most cases, but it was necessary in some instances to interpret the data so that they would agree in coverage and detail with the majority of jurisdictions.

Driver License Administration and Age Requirements

In 1994, there were 8,948,793 licensed drivers under the age of 20 in the United States.

The concept of the classified driver license is that the driver license requirements should be directly related to the type of vehicle to be operated. The classified licenses require the applicant to demonstrate the ability to drive the type or types of vehicles he or she intends to operate as well as to understand the laws and regulations related to the operation of such vehicles. With the passing of the Commercial Motor Vehicle Safety Act of 1986, this practice is law in all States, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico. Some States with classified systems place additional requirements on drivers operating for hire. Appendix 1 to Table DL-101 will show these additional breakouts when possible. There are federally imposed requirements on drivers of vehicles involved in foreign or interstate commerce. Information on the Federal requirements for interstate commerce and the provisions of the Commercial Motor Vehicle Safety Act of 1986 is included in the appendix on page A-1.

The minimum legal driving age for unrestricted use of automobiles without special training varies, with 21 States and the District of Columbia requiring the applicant to be 18, and 3 States allowing unrestricted operation at the age of 15. The number of States that permit 13- to 15-year-olds to drive under certain conditions dropped from 28 in 1994 to 18 in 1996. Appendix 2 to Table DL-101 describes the conditions and/or restrictions.

The most common license term is 4 years. Several States use shorter terms for older drivers or for those with bad driving records. This allows more frequent reexamination of these drivers. To spread the renewal workload more evenly throughout the year, the States use a staggered renewal system, usually basing the renewal date on the licensee's birthday or birth month.

Driver Training, License Examination and Renewal

The State of Texas issued 9,292,610 basic operator licenses in 1994.

The kinds of training and examination that are required for driver licensing are described in Table DL-102 along with the name of the examining agency. Driver training is required for teenage applicants in 21 States, and Louisiana, New York and Utah require driver training for all persons applying for their first license. On license renewal, 38 States, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico reexamine the driver's vision, but no State routinely retests his or her knowledge of highway laws and regulations, and Utah is the only State that routinely requires another driving test (only if applicant visits an examination station). A number of States have special reexamination requirements for older drivers. This may take the form of requiring additional testing of the older driver or more frequent imposition of the regular renewal requirements.

Positive identification of applicants before issuance of the first driver license is required in all States. In an effort to prevent the defacing of licenses or issuances of false licenses, 46 States, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico now issue driver licenses on tamper-proof media or with other tamper-proof features. Authenticity of the birth certificate can be verified by the Registrar of Vital Statistics in 28 States, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico.

Medical Advisory Boards have been provided in 42 States, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico--28 by law and 12 by administrative order; plus two States, Alabama and Wisconsin, have both administrative order and law in effect. These Boards, as provided by the Uniform Vehicle Code, advise on the medical criteria and vision standards that relate to the licensing of drivers. In addition, the Boards may advise on the physical or mental qualifications of applicants on the strength of records and reports presented to them.

Renewal of a driver license is not automatic. All States require the driver to complete a new application form and attest to its correctness by signing it. There are 9 jurisdictions that leave the initiative for renewal with the driver by not mailing a renewal notice. Alabama and Oklahoma only mail renewal notices after licensee fails to renew after a certain period of time. Some States do not mail renewal notices to those who have experienced license suspension or revocation or having unpaid traffic tickets.

Military personnel present a special driver licensing problem. Their movement throughout the country, and to other parts of the world, has placed them in a peculiar status. The Soldier's and Sailor's Civil Relief Act provides that those in service do not lose or change their legal residence as a result of being absent from their home States in compliance with military orders. Thus, a serviceman ordered to duty outside his or her home State is still considered to be a resident of that State. Many States make special provisions for members of the military by extending the life of their licenses until the end of active duty, the return to the State or for a specified period of time. Others allow renewals by mail at the usual intervals.

Reciprocity

Each State requires its residents, who wish to drive, to be licensed by that State. The time permitted to obtain a license for a newcomer to the State ranges from "immediately" to 6 months. Hawaii honors a valid out-of-State license until the expiration date shown on the license; and the District of Columbia requirements range from immediately to the expiration of the new arrival's vehicle registration tags. Surrender of the driver license from the former State of residence to State authorities issuing a new license is required by all States and the District of Columbia. In most cases, the surrendered licenses are returned to the State of issuance for cancellation. Several States notify the State of issuance when a license is surrendered but do not return the license. The accuracy of State driver license records is improved if these additional licenses are identified and purged from the system. A comparison of driver licenses with the number of persons of driving age in each State indicates some duplication in the driver license counts. This is of particular concern because persons holding multiple licenses are often able to avoid the consequences of their traffic violations.

For the new resident who holds a current license from his or her former State, the task of obtaining a license from the new State varies considerably. The driving test is generally waived but may be required at the discretion of the examiner.

The National Driver Register (NDR) is a computer master file which consists of "pointee" records on individuals which point to the State(s) that have revoked, suspended, or denied a license to an individual. The primary purpose of the NDR is to assist State driver licensing officials in locating information about problem drivers at the time of license application. Because it is a nationwide index, a State driver licensing agency may submit a single inquiry to the NDR to determine if a driver license applicant's driving privilege has been withdrawn in another State. The information obtained from the NDR can then be used in making the licensing decision.

The information in the NDR is available only to State and Federal driver licensing officials in connection with driver license applications and, through the States, to any individual who is employed or seeks employment as a motor vehicle operator; any individual who has received or who has applied for an airman's medical certificate; any individual who is employed or who seeks employment with a railroad as an operator of a locomotive; the U.S. Coast Guard regarding any individual who holds or who has applied for a license or certificate of registry under Section 7101 of Title 46 of the U.S. Code, or a merchant mariner's document under Section 7302 of that title; the National Transportation Safety Board and the Federal Highway Administration's Office of Motor Carriers in connection with accident investigations; and any individual in order to determine if the file contains any data pertaining to him or her, the accuracy of such data, or to obtain a copy of such data.

The NDR index currently contains records on approximately 24 million problem drivers. Approximately 127,000 State inquiries concerning license applications are processed daily, and of those inquiries, 88,000 are direct access. These result in nearly 3,700 identifications being made each day which are returned to the inquiring State for appropriate action. Program participation is voluntary. All States participate; however, the level of completeness varies (see map on p. 6).

There is almost complete reciprocity among the States for allowing out-of-State licensed drivers to operate a properly registered vehicle in any other State. The only reservations relate to the recognition of home State restrictions and the requirement by New York that the licensee be over 17 years of age.

Occasionally, drivers are out of their home States when their licenses expire, and their legal status to operate their vehicles is impaired. The "Agreement for Driver License Services" was instituted in 1969 to aid these drivers. Under its provisions, a participating State's licensing agency can conduct tests and provide temporary renewal services to residents of other States who are temporarily in the participating State's jurisdiction.

The "Beamer Resolution" (P.L. 85-684), passed in 1958, enables the States to enter into driver license compacts for joint action in the furtherance of traffic safety. The National Driver License Compact, developed to help control problem drivers, provides for an exchange of information among States. The purpose is to keep violation-prone drivers from accumulating violations in more than one jurisdiction, and escaping control action by the State in which he or she holds a driver license. It also promotes the "one license concept," whereby a person may possess only one valid license, issued by his or her State of residence for the vehicle he or she has qualified to operate, which is reciprocal in all other jurisdictions. There are 45 States and the District of Columbia in the Compact.

The Compact is supported by such organizations as the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators, the Council of State Governments, the National Governors' Association, the International Association of Chiefs of Police, the National Association of Attorneys General, the National Grange, the Highway Users Federation for Safety and Mobility, the National Safety Council, and the U.S. Department of Transportation.

Forty-five States and the District of Columbia are members of the Nonresident Violator Compact. This agreement allows a driver-violator in a foreign State to proceed to his or her home State without long delays and posting of bond, the case to be settled without appearance in court at a later date.

Driver License Content

1994 New York data show that out of a thousand persons of driving-age, only 735 hold a valid driver license.

There is a wealth of information shown on the driver license but not all States carry the same items. All States show name, address, license number, expiration date, date of birth, restrictions, and the driver's signature. Descriptive items such as sex, weight, height, and color of eyes are shown by most States, but the hair color is now required by only 18 States. Ten jurisdictions require the Social Security number on the application, but few use it as the license number. This should not be confused with the Federal requirement that the commercial driver license application contain the individual's Social Security number. This requirement may be waived if the applicant shows that it is against his or her religion to furnish such number. A photograph is used on the driver license in all States except New Jersey (where it is required for those under 21 and for commercial driver licenses, but it is optional for others), and Vermont (where the photo is optional). All States and the District of Columbia have an organ donor program. Most States have made provisions for recording participation in an organ donor program on or as an attachment to the license.

STATES USING NATIONAL DRIVER REGISTER TO CHECK DRIVER LICENSE APPLICATIONS

TABLE DL-104A

Nondriver Identification Card

A growing need for personal identification has resulted in the issuance of identification cards for nondrivers in all States and the District of Columbia. Several States issue these cards as a courtesy to their visiting winter residents that are vacationing in their State.

Driver License Fees

Permits are required for all learners in every State except Connecticut and New Hampshire. These two States require permits for motorcycle learners only. Learner permit fees for a basic operator license range from no fee in 2 States to $30.00 in Maryland (all of which is applied to the cost of the initial license when applicant passes the tests). The chart on page 8 shows the average annual driver license fee for each State for those renewing their licenses. The chart on page 9 shows the average annual fees for new licenses for those under 21 years of age (this does not take into account the amount paid for a learner permit nor the portion of the learner permit fee that is applied to the permanent license).

Problem Drivers

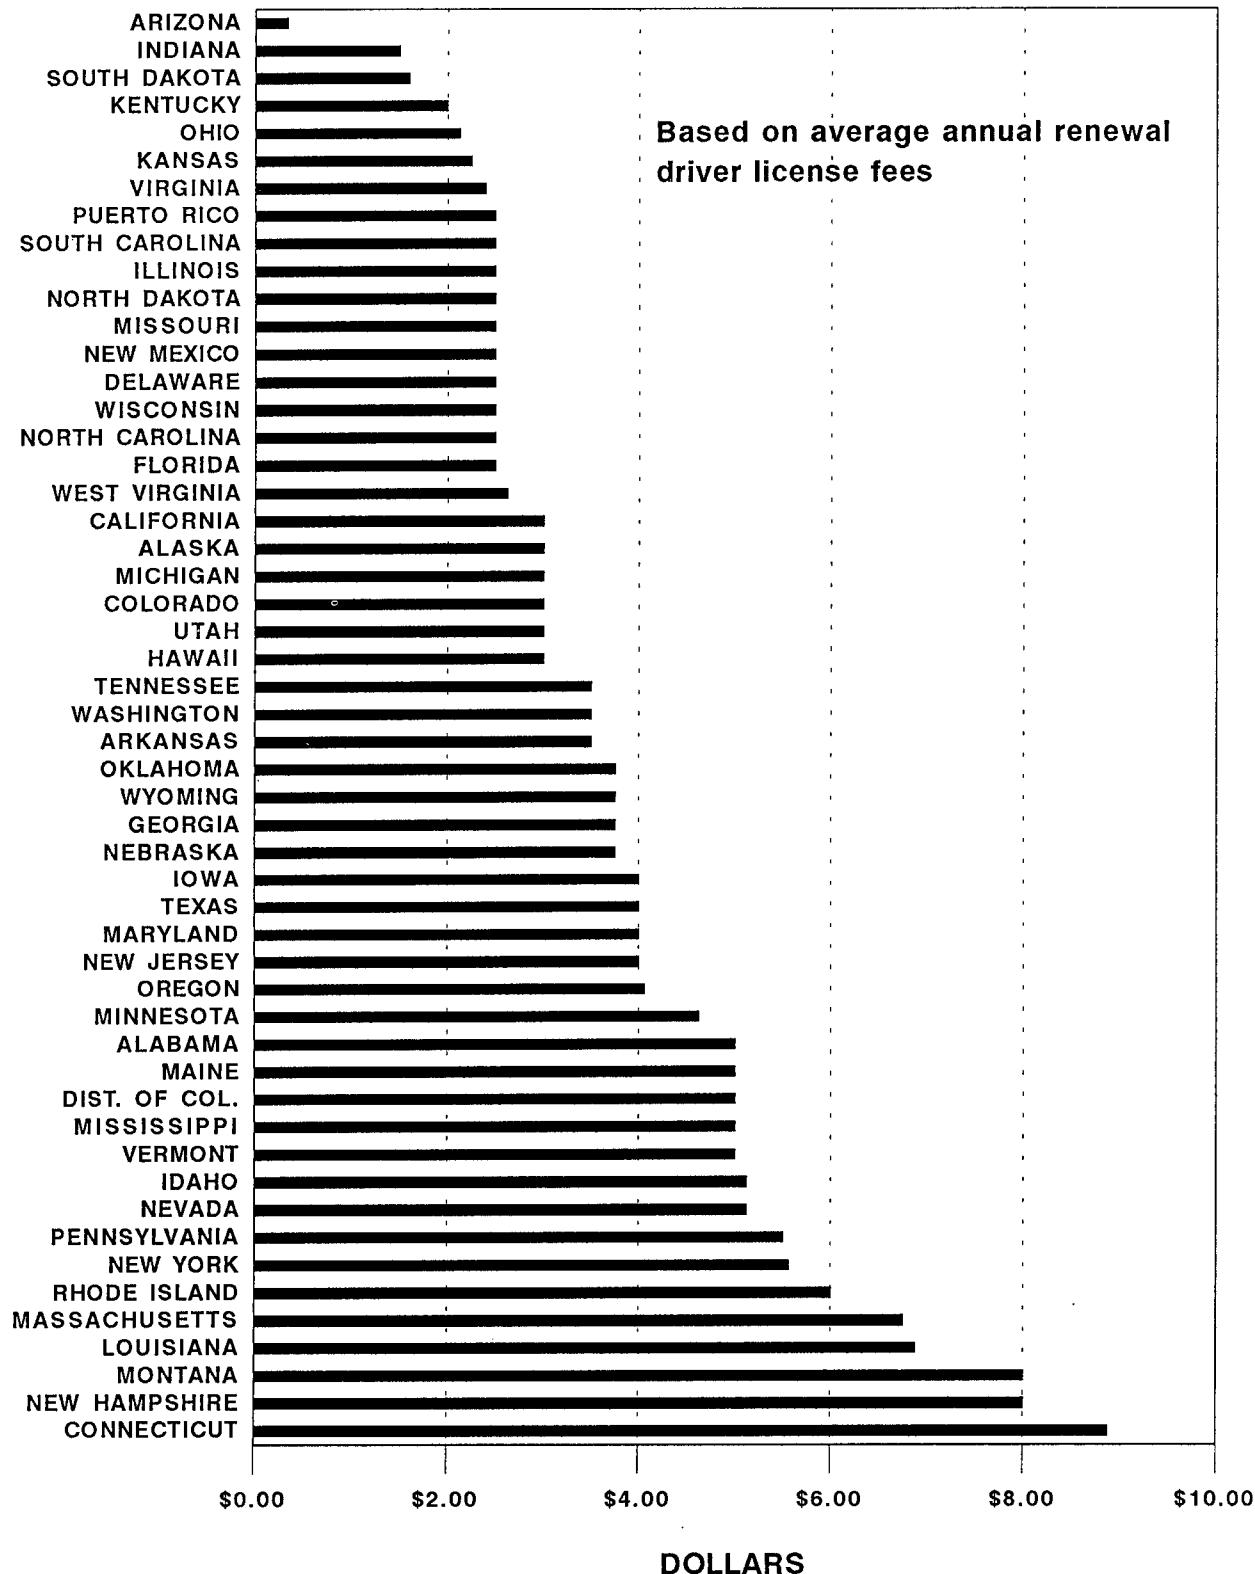

A point system to penalize drivers for traffic law violations is in use in 40 States, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico. This has been accomplished by administrative action in 15 States and the District of Columbia and is a part of the driver license law in 25 States and Puerto Rico. Four other States are covered under administrative action and law. Forty-seven States, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico provide a uniform traffic ticket that is issued by all traffic enforcement agencies, a copy being sent to the violator and the court. All but 2 of the 47 issuing jurisdictions send a copy of the conviction record to the driver licensing agency.

Forty-eight States, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico have access to computer terminals or have motor vehicle field offices equipped with terminals. Twenty-two States and the District of Columbia have computer terminals in the courts or access to them. This enables authorities to retrieve driver records quickly, an especially useful factor in identifying problem drivers.

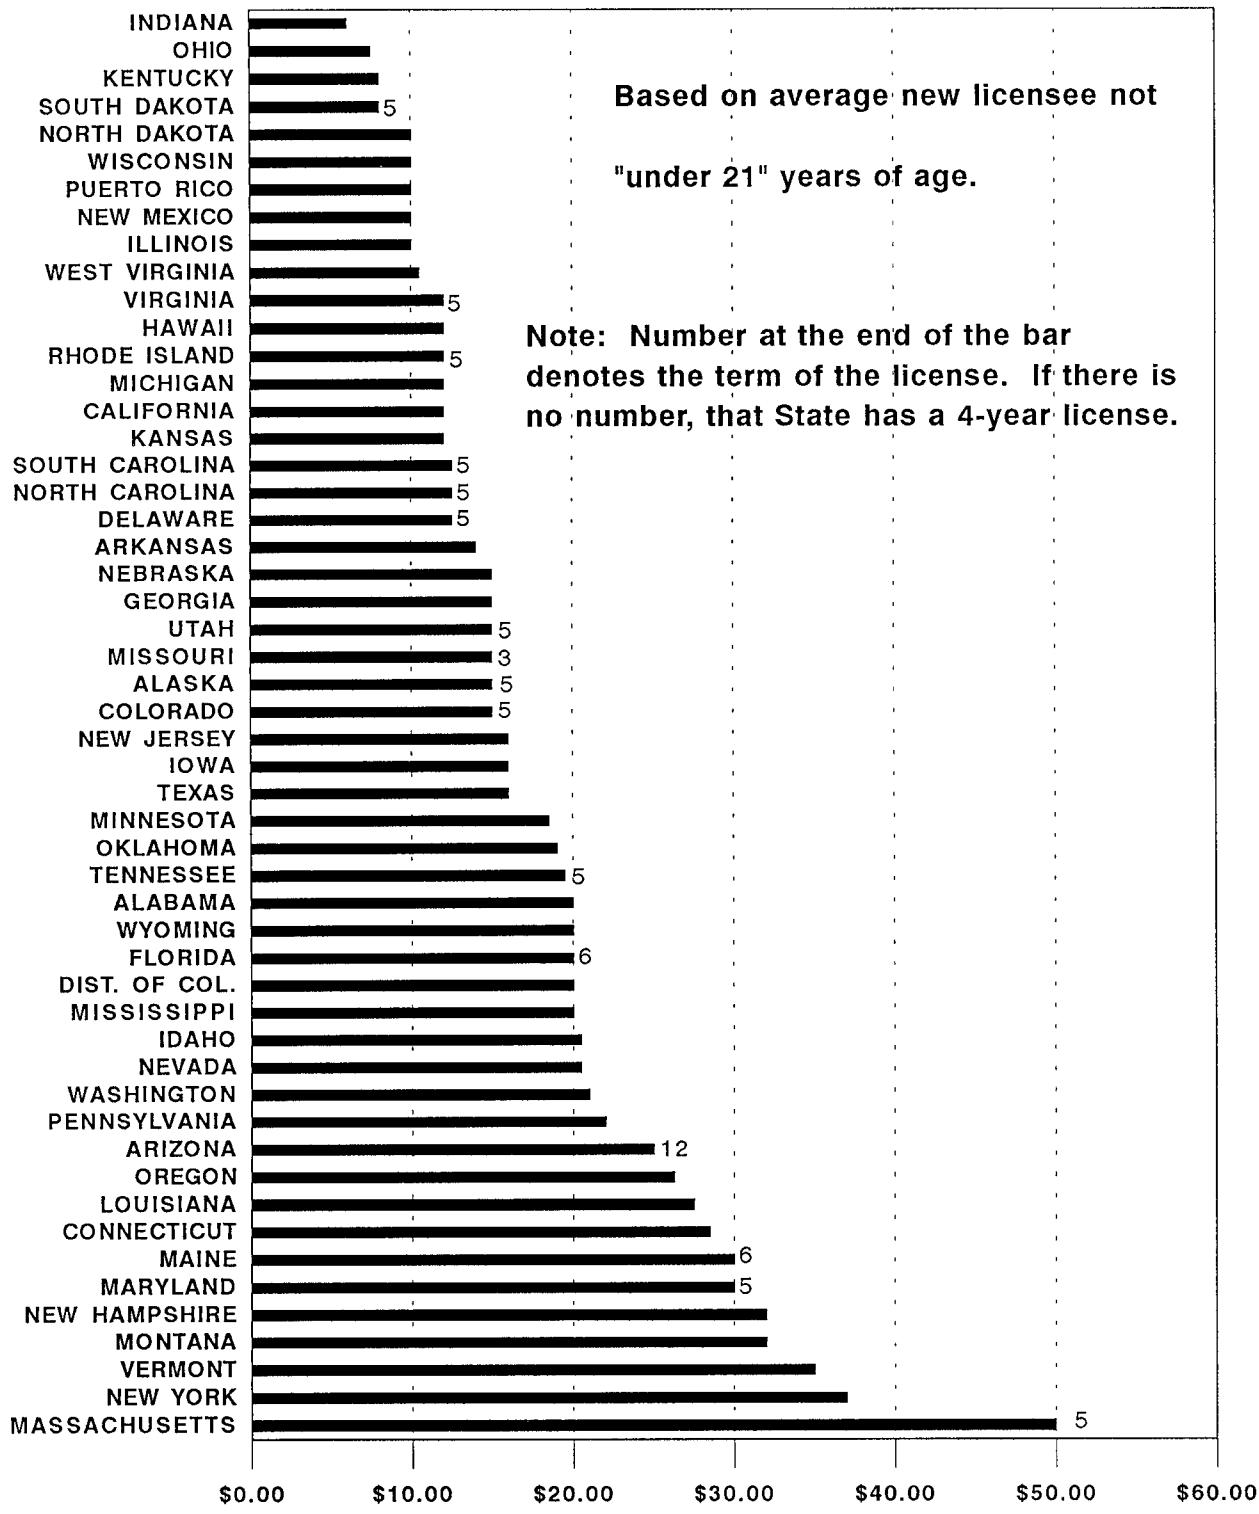

To cope with the increasing problems caused by the drunk driver, many States have adopted illegal per se laws. Illegal per se laws establish as a traffic offense the operation of a motor vehicle by a driver with an alcohol concentration expressed in terms of either grams of alcohol per 100 milliliters of blood or grams of alcohol per 210 liters of breath. Although this level is set at .10 percent in most States, in recent years a number of States have lowered the level to .08 percent. This represents a significant improvement over the traditional "driving while intoxicated" (DWI) laws in several respects. First, it raises the legal significance given to a BAC of 0.10 percent or more from presumptive evidence of intoxication to absolute evidence of intoxication. Second, some of the more subjective, and hence more refutable, aspects of establishing the offense of DWI (e.g., behavioral tests, slurred speech) are eliminated as evidentiary indicators of guilt or innocence. Thus, the BAC level becomes the sole criterion for determining legal intoxication.

Driver license suspension/revocation (S/R) executed in a swift and sure manner is an effective highway safety measure toward reductions in crashes and traffic violations by DWI offenders and deters drinking and driving by the general population. In many jurisdictions S/R is not imposed for alcohol related offenses until a record of conviction is received by the licensing agency. However, 39 States and the District of Columbia now have laws that specifically provide for suspending the licenses of persons arrested/charged with drunk driving, prior to court action (see map on page 12).

Suspension, Revocation, and Reinstatement

The requirements for reinstating a driver license vary with the reasons for removal of the license from active status. Late renewals are processed without question or penalty in 4 States; only monetary penalties are assessed in 10 States; and in 41 States, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico a partial or complete reexamination is required either immediately after the license expiration, or after a specified grace period following the license expiration. These grace periods range from as little as 10 days to 5 years.

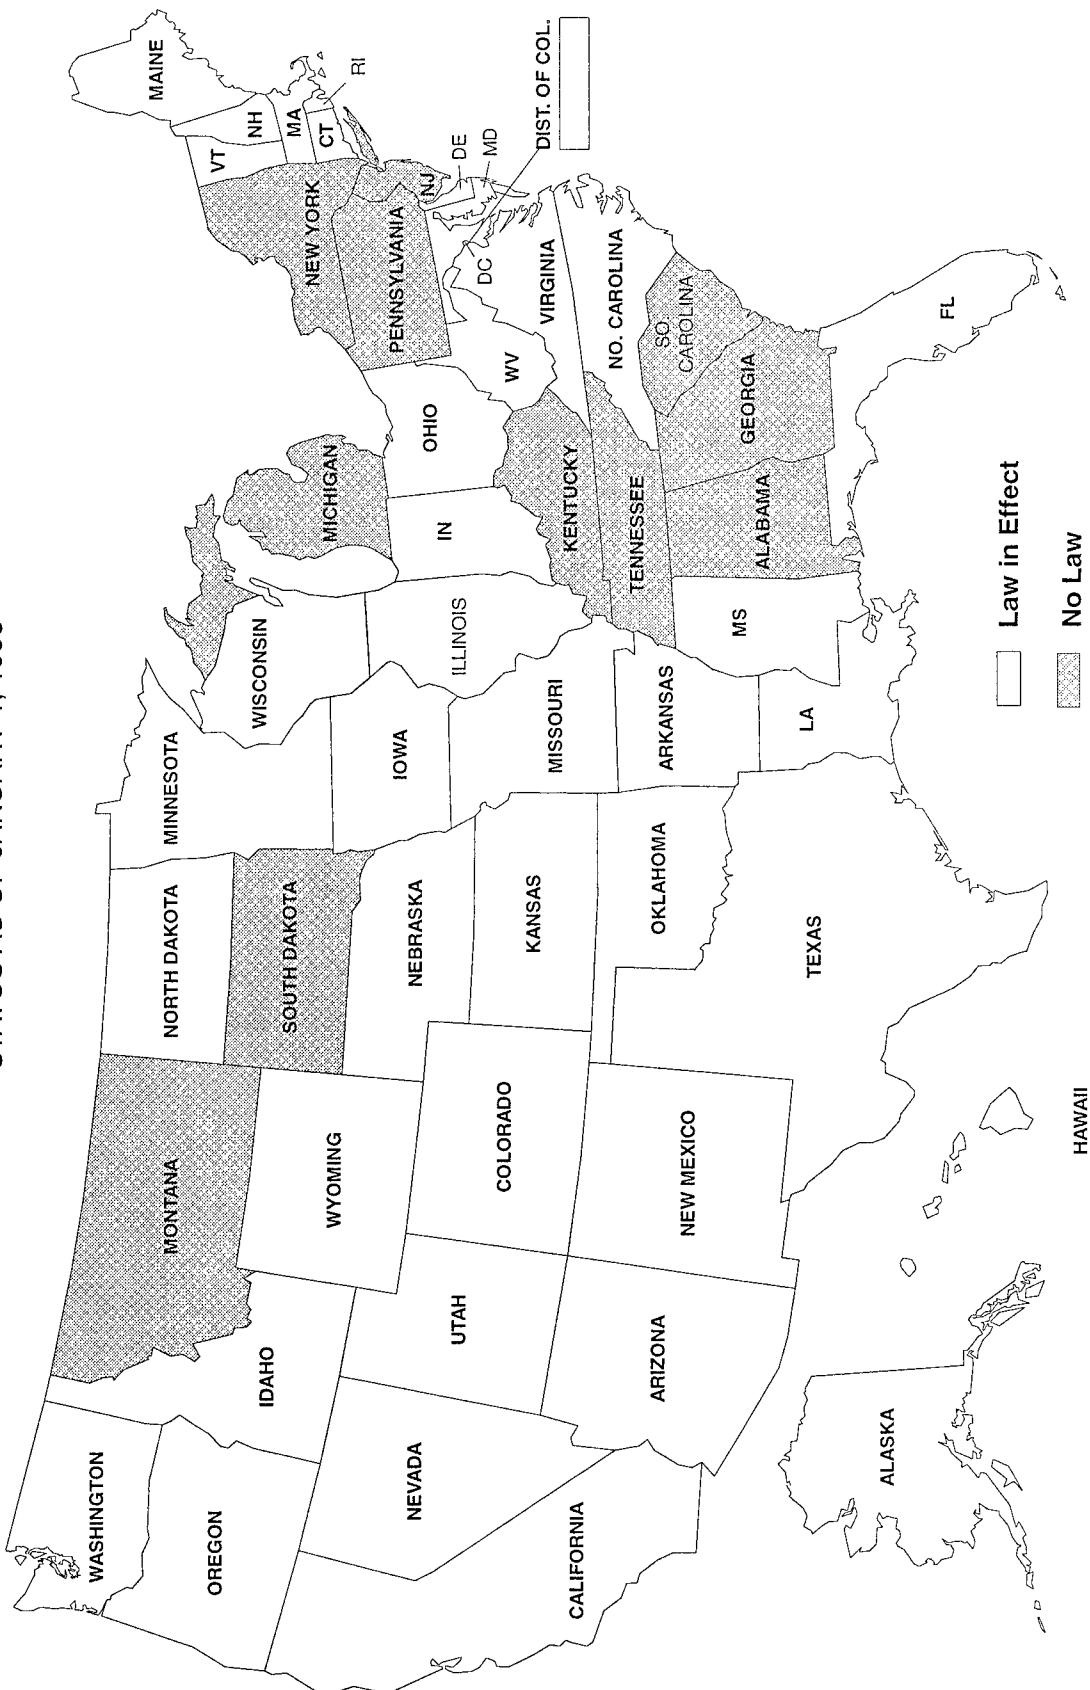

Driver license suspensions and revocations are always for cause and the reinstatement requirements generally are designed to fit or correct the deficiencies noted. For suspensions it is customary in a few States and Puerto Rico to return the license after a specified time lapse, while in the remaining States requirements include reinstatement fees, attendance at driver improvement clinics, proof of financial responsibility, or complete reexamination.

License revocation terminates a person's licensed condition, and customarily he or she must reapply and be reexamined at the end of the revocation period in order to regain his or her driving privilege. In addition to the regular requirements for drivers, some States place additional qualifications on persons who have had their licenses revoked. Future proof of financial responsibility is required in many States usually in the form of a certified insurance policy (SR-22).

1/ FLORIDA—Drug, alcohol and traffic education course required of original applicants who have no proof of previous license. LOUISIANA—All applicants for a first-time driver's license, MICHIGAN—If applicant has completed public school education within 1 year of the application, a road test is not given. MARYLAND—3 hours of driver awareness course required of individuals over 18 who have never been licensed in the U.S. OREGON—All applicants 16-18 years of age must successfully complete a motorcycle rider education course before a motorcycle endorsement may be issued. VIRGINIA—Driver training is required for persons who have not reached the age of 19. An 18-year-old applicant must complete the classroom portion, containing an alcohol component, of a driver education course. Applicants 16-17 years must complete both the classroom and the behind-the-wheel components of a driver education course.
2/ ALABAMA, IDAHO—if requested, can check with vital statistics, but also have samples on file at office.
3/ PENNSYLVANIA—Test, also administered by the Department of Education to those under 18 successfully completing 30 hours of instruction.
4/ CALIFORNIA, COLORADO—Reexamination usually waived on regular licenses for "clear-record drivers" under terms of their state laws.
5/ MAINE—Renewal vision exam at time of first renewal after age 40; at every 4 years for ages 41-65, and/or test every 4 years for ages 75-80; every 2 years for ages 81-86; and every year for ages 87 and older. MONTANA—Applicants with valid OS in possession may be waived from written and skills test requirement, examiner discretion. NEW YORK—Written examinations required upon first licensure and to amend CDL classes. Examination on renewal required for CDL with hazardous materials endorsement. PENNSYLVANIA—Medical exams are required on a random basis for those 45 and over.
6/ OKLAHOMA—Only after failure to renew within 30 days of expiration. MASSACHUSETTS—Except suspensions, revocations and parking tickets. OKLAHOMA—Only after failure to renew within 15 days of expiration. UTAH—Drivers who have received no suspensions, revocations, or convictions of reckless driving and no more than 4 reportable violations and have less than a certain number of points during previous 5 years are eligible for renewals by mail program. Those persons are notified at time of application and no physical visual impairments, CDL requires knowledge test on hazardous materials endorsements and renewals. WISCONSIN—Persons with medical/physical disabilities and all school bus endorsements are still tested. Gives haz mat and school bus knowledge test upon renewal.

Puerto Rico

1/ HAWAII-A void driver license, Class 1, 2 or 3 from any State, U.S. territory or possession, or Canadian Province is valid in Hawaii until the expiration date shown on the license if the driver is 18 years or over.

2/ The State of issuance is notified that the license was surrendered. MINNESOTA-License is invalidated and returned to licensee; a surrendered list is prepared and returned to distribution to all showing surrender of license from out of State and notification that those drivers are now licensed in Montana or Nebraska. NEW YORK-State notified electronically or by letter. TENNESSEE-State of licensee notified monthly of the change and document destroyed. WASHINGTON-License invalidated and returned to applicant. Residents only may obtain license; non-residents may obtain ID card only.

3/ IDAHO-Skills test at examiner's discretion; usually waived. KENTUCKY-No tests required if new resident surrenders an ARKANSAS license that has expired less than 30 days. A CONNECTICUT license expired less than 60 days, or a TENNESSEE license that has not expired. (TENNESSEE applicants are exempt from the written test only; vision test still required.) MICHIGAN--Required for all foreign country applicants. NEW YORK--Reciprocity is granted for any State, the District of Columbia, any U.S. territory or possession, or any Canadian Province. Reciprocity is not granted for driver licenses of foreign countries and all examinations (knowledge, vehicle operation, vision) are required and the application is treated as an "original" request.

4/ MICHIGAN--Only for serious offenses, i.e., alcohol/drugs, reckless driving, etc. Do not withdraw

5/ The agreement for driver license services permits a State licensing agency to conduct tests for nonresidents whose home-State license expires and cannot be renewed without personal appearance and reexamination. KENTUCKY--Can administer test, but does not issue temporary licenses. NEW JERSEY--Reports license withdrawals for all major traffic offenses including DUI, reckless driving, failure to perform duties of a driver involved in an accident, criminal driving while suspended or revoked, fleeing or attempting to elude a police officer and driving after being declared a habitual offender.

6/ The Driver License Compact is an agreement among the States to control problem drivers. It provides for exchange of information to keep unsafe drivers from accumulating violations in many States and escaping control action; it implements the "one license" concept.

7/ the nonresident compact allows a driver-violator in a foreign State to proceed to his home State without long delays and posting of bond, his case to be settled without his appearance in court at a later date.

4/ FLORIDA--Both names are permitted, but one or the other is required.

5/ KANSAS--Full middle name required if it can be verified; if not, middle initial is required.

6/ MISSOURI--Signature may include nickname or professional name but last name must be same as last legal action.

7/ TENNESSEE--Married name required if it is the legal name. WASHINGTON--May be hyphenated with legal name.

8/ VIRGINIA--Professional prefixes (Dr., Sister, etc.) are permitted.

CANADIAN DATA REVIEW

The layout of the Canadian tables are similar to the preceding tables for the United States.

All of the 12 Canadian jurisdictions have classified driver licensing systems and all use the birthday or birth month for the driver license renewal date. For automobile operation, the minimum age ranges from 16 to 18. All jurisdictions require motorcycle operators to be examined and licensed at a minimum age of 16.

Positive identification is required before issuance of a first driver license in all of the reporting jurisdictions. Driver training is required only in Quebec.

New residents must obtain a driver license immediately in two jurisdictions, while British Columbia allows 6 months after establishing residence. All provinces and territories are now linked through the Interprovincial Records Exchange System (IRE). Each province/territory also has the means to close out driver and vehicle records through electronic means via the IRE.

Items included on the driver license in all jurisdictions are name, address, license number, expiration date, birth date, class of license, restrictions, and the signature of the driver. It is worthy of note that the license in one of the Provinces includes no physical description of the driver and no photograph. Alberta has replaced the two-part driver license/identification card with a one-part digitized photo card. This card is tamper-proof plastic, with security laminate, containing a digitized color photo and signature.

In all of the jurisdictions, suspensions and revocations result in a time lapse, reexamination, and/or reinstatement fee depending on the offense. Drivers renewing their licenses late are not penalized until 1 to 5 years have elapsed in 10 of the Provinces, at which time a reexamination is required.

1/ PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND—Checked on Interprovincial Record Exchange.

2/ MANITOBA—A monthly listing is sent to all jurisdictions showing the details of surrendered licenses and the current address of the driver or electronic closeout of driver and vehicle records via the IRE.

3/ MANITOBA—Full reciprocity on all Canadian driver licenses and U.S. State CDL; vision test required; air brake test required if not endorsed on license. Reciprocity on Classes 5 and 6 non-CDL U.S. licenses; reciprocity extended to other Classes. If equivalent, subject to vision and written test if (1) he/she has had at least 18 months driving experience in the class applied for (must be continuous and to within 6 months of application) and (2) he/she files a letter from employer confirming driving experience. Medical report must be filed.

ONTARIO—Full reciprocity on all classes of licenses, except learners and Classes B and E. From other Provinces and on U.S. equivalent to the Class "G" license. All others must complete knowledge, signs and signals, vision and vehicle operation tests. QUEBEC—tests waived for Class 5 and 6 license holders from other Canadian Provinces. Road test is waived for Class 1, 2, and 3 license holders from other Canadian provinces. Reciprocity for Class 5 license with French Republic, Maine, New York, Florida (as of April 1, 1996), and Ontario, Saskatchewan—knowledge, sign and signals, vision and vehicle operation tests waived for license holders from all jurisdictions of Canada and for Class 5 for U.S.

YUKON—Full reciprocity on all classes of licenses, except learners.

4/ The agreement for driver license services permits a licensing agency to conduct tests for nonresidents whose driver licenses expire and cannot be renewed without personal appearance and reexamination.

5/ The driver license compact is an agreement among jurisdictions to control problem drivers. It provides for the exchange of information to keep unsafe drivers from accumulating violations and escaping control action; and it implements the one license concept.

6/ The Unit Nonresident Violator Compact allows a driver-violator in a foreign jurisdiction to proceed to his home jurisdiction without long delays and posting of bond, his case to be settled without his appearance in court at a later date.

7/ MANITOBA—Driver record is sent to State or Province issuing a new license.

1/ Because of the general acceptance of the driver license as identification, many nondriving applicants were qualifying for a driver license only as a means of obtaining a recognized identification. Therefore, some driver licensing agencies have begun issuing the nondriver identification card to persons needing identification but not desiring to drive a motor vehicle.

1/ ALBERTA--Fees are for 5-year terms. Original and renewal fees do not include road test fees--Classes 1, 2 or 3 ($30); Class 4 ($20); Classes 5 and 6 ($15); knowledge test ($7). Road tests are averages since the fee is set by private examiners. An agency service fee of $4 is added to the learner permit, original, renewal and duplicate.

2/ BRITISH COLUMBIA--Examination fee for original license: $40 for Classes 3, 4, 5 and 6; $50 for Class 2; and $60 for Class 1. License fee $17 for persons 65 and older.

3/ MANITOBA--Public Insurance assesses an annual proratable premium of $35 on all driver licenses (which may be discounted to reward good driving). If a driver has 6 or more demerit points, additional proratable premiums of $150 or more are assessed. Involvement in 2 or more accidents for which the driver is 50% or more responsible in one 36-month period will result in a surcharge of $250 for the second, $500 for the third, and $750 for the fourth and subsequent accidents. Road test fees are: Class 1, $45; Classes 2 and 3, $40; and Classes 4, $30; and Classes 5 & 6, $25. Also, drivers who are not a registered owner of a motor vehicle will be assessed $150 surcharge for their first responsible accident in one 36-month period, $250 for the second, $500 for the third, and $750 for the fourth and subsequent accidents.

4/ NEW BRUNSWICK--Includes $7 unsatisfied judgment fund fee at present.

5/ NEWFOUNDLAND--In addition, there is a $15 examination fee.

6/ ONTARIO--Includes 1 attempt at written test ($10) and 1 attempt at road test ($40 for level one, $75 for level two (or $85 for Commercial Driver License)); also includes $1 contribution to the Motor Vehicle Accident Claims Fund.

7/ PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND--$15 driving test for original license.

8/ QUÉBEC--Fee includes: learner permit, $8; Provincial insurance, $11, and administration, $6. Original license fee (2-year term) includes: license fee, $30; Provincial insurance, $50, and administration, $6. Renewal license fee (2-year term) includes: license fee $30; Provincial insurance, $50, and administration $4. Photo plastic-encased license, an additional $8 administrative fee, except for learner permit. Knowledge test fees, $10. Road test fees for original license (Classes 5 and 6), $25. Adding a class (Classes 1, 2, and 3), $50.

9/ SASKATCHEWAN--The learner permit fee shown does not include the $10 charge per sitting for written/oral examination for original learner permit or the $10 charge per sitting for written/oral examination to change license class or add endorsement. Driver license examination fees: Classes 1 and 2, $25; Classes 3 and 4, $20; Classes 5 and 6, $15; School bus $15; air brake endorsement, $10, and motorcycle endorsement, $15.

APPENDIX A

SPECIAL REQUIREMENTS FOR COMMERCIAL MOTOR VEHICLE OPERATORS

Responding to growing public concern for safe operation of commercial motor vehicles (CMV), the Congress passed the Commercial Motor Vehicle Safety Act of 1986. The Act mandates a single license for all CMV operators and imposes stringent disqualification penalties on CMV drivers who commit certain offenses such as driving a CMV under the influence of alcohol or leaving the scene of an accident involving a CMV. It requires every State and the District of Columbia to have a classified testing and licensing system in place for CMV drivers which meets minimum Federal standards and establishes a national information system to monitor drivers.

The Act applies to CMV drivers who operate in both interstate and intrastate commerce. A CMV is defined as any motor vehicle used in commerce which fits the description of any of the vehicle groups described in the accompanying figure.

Effective July 1, 1987, the single license provisions of the Act took effect. As of April 1, 1992, every CMV operator must have a commercial driver's license (CDL) issued in accordance with FHWA's testing and licensing standards. The States retain the option of adopting stricter standards. Each driver must take one or more knowledge tests and most driver applicants must take a behind-the-wheel skills test in a CMV representative of the class of vehicle he or she operates or expects to operate. States may contract with third parties to perform the skills tests. Endorsements are required for the operation of certain specialized vehicles: double\triple trailer; passenger vehicles; tank vehicles; and vehicles required to be placarded for hazardous materials. Each endorsement entails an additional knowledge or skills test. Drivers applying for a passenger endorsement, who require a skills test, are required to take the test in a passenger vehicle representative of the vehicle he or she operates or expects to operate. The license shows the highest class of vehicle the driver is allowed to operate, as well as, the endorsement tests the driver has passed. It must be clearly identifiable as a CDL and be as tamper proof as possible.

VEHICLE GROUPS AS ESTABLISHED BY FHWA (SECTION 383.91)

[Note: Certain types of vehicles, such as passenger and doubles/triples, will require an endorsement. Please consult text for particulars.]

Group: Description:

- A Any combination of vehicles with a GCWR of 26,001 or more pounds provided the GVWR of the vehicle(s) being towed is in excess of 10,000 pounds. (Holders of a Group A license may, with any appropriate endorsements, operate all vehicles within Groups B and C.)

Examples include but are not limited to:

- B Any single vehicle with a GVWR of 26,001 or more pounds, or any such vehicle towing a vehicle not in excess of 10,000 pounds GVWR. (Holders of a Group B license may, with any appropriate endorsements, operate all vehicles within Group C.)

Examples include but are not limited to:

- C Any single vehicle, or combination of vehicles, that does not meet the definition of Group A or Group B as contained herein, but that either is designed to transport 16 or more passengers including the driver, or is placarded for hazardous materials.

Examples include but are not limited to:

* The representative vehicle for the skills test must meet the written description for that group. The silhouettes typify, but do not fully cover, the types of vehicles falling within each group.

The States have distributed manuals to driver applicants that incorporate the knowledge and skills to be tested and guidance on taking the examinations.

Waiver Provisions under CDL Requirements (49 CFR 383). The CDL regulations apply to drivers operating in both interstate and intrastate commerce. However, there are waiver provisions allowed for certain operators of CDL motor vehicles. For example, all active duty military drivers are waived from the CDL requirements by the Federal Highway Administrator. Also, a State, at its discretion, may waive fire fighters, operators of emergency equipment and certain farmers from the CDL requirements, subject to certain conditions in the Federal Motor Carrier Safety Regulations (FMCSRs; 49 CFR, Chapter III, Subpart B, Part 383).

Waiver Provisions under FMCSRs for Interstate Drivers (49 CFR 390-397). There are additional requirements for drivers who operate commercial vehicles in interstate commerce. For example, the driver must be at least 21 years of age and must be able to speak and read English sufficiently to comply with the safety regulations and communicate with enforcement personnel, and pass a physical examination. Also, there are exemptions from the FMCSR for some interstate commercial motor vehicle drivers. For example, transportation performed by the Federal Government, State, or political subdivision of a State is generally excepted from all of the FMCSR but are subject to the CDL requirements. In addition, drivers who drive commercial motor vehicles for custom-harvesting operations are exempt from the medical requirements of the FMCSR, provided certain provisions are met (FMCSR; 49 CFR, Chapter III, Subpart B, Parts 390 and 391).

Since April 1, 1992, foreign CMV drivers who operate in the United States must also have a driver's license which meets the new Federal standards. On May 23, 1989, the FHWA determined that licenses issued by Canadian jurisdictions under the Canadian National Safety Code (CNSC) meet the CDL testing and licensing standards contained in the Act. Accordingly a license issued by a Canadian jurisdiction in conformity with CNSC is considered to be the single license for operation in the United States by Canadian commercial motor vehicle drivers. The Department of Transportation also signed a memorandum of understanding with Mexico on November 21, 1991, which states the new Licencia Federal issued by Mexico is considered to be the single license for operation in the United States by Mexican commercial motor vehicle drivers. It, too, was put into effect on April 1, 1992. Drivers who have licenses issued in a foreign jurisdiction of domicile that do not meet the United States CDL testing and licensing standards must obtain a nonresident CDL.

As of April 1, 1992, all States were issuing commercial driver licenses. The FHWA continues to work with all of the States in implementing the provisions of the Act. Drivers and other interested parties should check with their State licensing agency for further information.
